PW.Project. 25

PW.Project. 25 is a project space created by Masters of Art By Research student Roisin Moloney.

In preparation for her final exhibition Roisin is using the gallery space as an active studio. Are you interested in environmentally conscious art practice?

Stop by for a discussion on eco practice materiality and display!

Recompose

A solo exhibition by Dee Hurley
Recompose aims to honour the unregarded and often discarded elements of plants. The remains of plant matter, rescued from the process of decomposition are recomposed into sympathetic configurations of botanical elements.

James Barry Exhibition Centre
MTU Bishopstown Campus, Cork
Exhibition runs 31 March - 30 April
Monday-Friday 10am-4pm

Ecologies Art Lab

Poster Exhibition Sherman Crawford Street

The Ecologies Art Lab (E.A.L.) is an evolving learning community dedicated to exploring the intersections of ecology, artistic practice, and material transformation.

Established in 2023, the E.A.L. research group includes artists, Catherine Hehir, Helle Helsner, Fiona Kelly, Dr. Marilyn Lennon, Colette Lewis and Dr. Collette Nolan.

Situated in the MTU Faculty of Creative and Performing Arts and Media, Crawford College of Art & Design, this initiative fosters a dynamic research and creative space where artists, researchers, and educators engage in discussions, workshops, and fieldwork to rethink the role of art within ecological systems.
